

ALLDS HURLS LIE AT CONGER AND MOE

Declares on Witness Stand
He Never Asked Bribe.

EXPLAINS BRIDGE BILL DEFEAT

Appeal of Senator Platt to Speaker
Nixon, of Albany Legislature, Caused Malby-Stevens Measure to Be Defeated, He Declares—To Be Cross-examined To-day.

Albany, March 3.—Senator Jotham P. Allds went on the stand in his own behalf to-day, and swore that the bribery charge was untrue. He looked Senator Benn Conger squarely in the eye, and said that the stories told on the stand by Conger and Deacon Moe were lies in every important essential. Allds insisted that he never met and never knew Frank Conger, and never went to Benn's apartments to demand $5,000 from his brother Frank or for any other purpose.

Acting Majority Leader George A. Davis, of Buffalo, who is presiding at the trial, said at the adjournment to-day that he hoped by this time next week the Allds trial would be over, and the legislature could get down to its regular business.

Mr. Littleton did not finish questioning Senator Allds when the time of adjournment was reached to-day. He said he had a few more questions to ask Mr. Allds to-morrow. Then the accused Senator will be cross-examined by Mr. Osborne.

Vote Expected March 11.

Mr. Osborne said that if Allds proved as good a witness on cross-examination as he was on direct, not longer than a day and a half or two days at the longest would be devoted to the cross-examination. Counsel on both sides will sum up next week and the case will go to the senate for a vote on Friday, March 11. Chairman Davis said he didn't think that the following week to vote, but that developments within the next day or two would make this more definite.

In his general denial of all the allegations Senator Allds referred to the correspondence which passed between Editor Smith, of Owego, United States T. C. Platt and himself.

Lays Bill's Defeat to Platt.
Senator Allds also stated that Senator Platt had appealed to Speaker Nixon in an effort to defeat the bridge legislation, and that it was because of this influence the Malby-Stevens bill was killed. Senator Allds said that he had never demanded or never received any money from any source to influence his action in the legislature.

HEINZE AGAIN INDICTED.

Charges Will Be Consolidated for Trial in April.

New York, March 3.—The Federal grand jury returned a new indictment to-day against Fritz Augustus Heinze, charging misapplication of the Mercantile National Bank funds through the over-certification of the checks of Otto Heinze & Co. and loans made in connection with the exploitation of the United Copper Company. The amounts alleged to have been misapplied total $95,000. Heinze will be formally arraigned to-morrow morning before Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court, and will be released under the same bond of $50,000 which he has given under the two indictments that are still outstanding against him.

Heinze was first indicted on charges under the national banking law in January, 1908, and again in May, 1909. The first indictment and one count of the second were consolidated last January and trial set down for March 7. These two indictments will be consolidated with to-day's indictment, and the trial will be set for the April term of court.

FIGHTS FEDERAL EDUCATION.

New York School Superintendent
Before National Association.

Indianapolis, March 3.—The department of superintendents of the National Education Association refused to-day to endorse the plan to create a department of education in the United States government with a Cabinet officer at its head. The fight against the adoption of a resolution which proposed to endorse the idea was led by William F. Maxwell, superintendent of the schools of the city of New York, and he based his objection on the ground that such a department and such a Cabinet officer would be the playing of politics, and would bring the public school system of the country under the control of a political machine.

He declared that there was no need for such a department. He said it was not the business of the Federal government to handle the educational system. This was by the United States Constitution inferentially with the States. The United States could only assume such authority as was conferred on it by the Constitution. All other powers and authority were reserved to the States. There would be great danger in placing the educational system of the country in the hands of an executive officer of the government when such officer would only be in office temporarily and subject to changes politically.

Son Accused of Forgery.

Detectives are searching for George T. Dutrow, nineteen years old, who is wanted on a charge of forgery. It is alleged that Dutrow forged the name of his mother, Mrs. Mamie E. Dutrow, of 609 Third street northeast, to six checks, aggregating $300, on the Washington Loan and Trust Company.

Col. Bullitt Dead.

Baltimore, Md., March 3.—Col. Thomas W. Bullitt, a prominent lawyer of Louisville, Ky., died at a hospital here to-day of apoplexy, with which he was stricken on a street car about a week ago. The body will be taken to Louisville for burial. Col. Bullitt was seventy-one years of age. He served under Gen. Morgan in the Confederate army during the civil war.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS URGED.

Resolution of Sympathy Sent to Philadelphia Strikers.

Various phases of the trust question were considered at a meeting of the national executive committee of the American Anti-Trust League at the New Willard Hotel yesterday. The resolution endorsing the action of the American Federation of Labor, demanding an enforcement of the anti-trust laws was adopted. The committee endorsed the bill of Senator Gore, providing for a reserve oil fuel supply for the United States navy. The passage of this bill, it is stated, would result in tremendous saving to the navy. A resolution was adopted extending sympathy to the employees of the Philadelphia street railway companies in their fight. Another session will be held to-day, and matters relative to the Federal incorporation laws, proposed by President Taft, will be taken up.

ALUMNI AT BANQUET

Massachusetts Institute of Technology Cheered.

DR. R. C. MACLAURIN SPEAKS

President of Boston "Tech" Brings Message to Washington Graduates and Urges Them to Aid Its Advancement—Powers of Real Expert Needed in Present Day Affairs.

Nearly 100 alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology lastly cheered a message from their alma mater, delivered by Dr. Richard C. MacLaurin, at the eleventh annual banquet of the association, held at Rauscher's last night.

Dr. MacLaurin told the alumni he had recently visited the principal associations of the institute scattered throughout the country, and had found "Tech" men occupying positions of power and responsibility everywhere, and everywhere commanding respect.

Chemistry Now Pre-eminent.
There were indications, he said, that this century would be pre-eminently the century of MacLaurin, just as the last century had been made memorable by numerous applications of physics to practical affairs, such as the steam engine, the gas engine, and dynamo, which had revolutionized not only our industries, but our whole social order.

"The rising generation," he declared, "is awakening to the possibilities of a scientific development of our chemical industries, since one-seventh of all who entered the Boston 'Tech' this year elected the course in industrial chemistry." President MacLaurin urged the alumni to take an interest in their alma mater and further its advancement. "The earnestness with which you do this," he said, "will be a touchstone not only of your devotion, but of the genuineness of your patriotism."

Dr. MacLaurin declared our democracy was threatened by the prevalence of the idea that one man is as good as another. "We have already suffered too much at the hands of the amateur," he said, "and we must cast him out root and branch, and make use of the powers of the real expert."

He scored the widespread spirit of extravagance in America. "We must learn," he said, "to avoid waste, and look for new applications of science that will enable us to conserve our natural resources."

Acts as Toastmaster.
Charles F. Willard, as toastmaster, urged an enlargement of the social activities of the Washington alumni by participation in weekly luncheons. He also advocated the creation of a reception committee for the convenience of visiting classmates.

In addition to Dr. MacLaurin, Mr. Willard introduced the following speakers: Edward B. Moore, Commissioner of Patents; Representative W. C. Hawley, of Oregon; Representative W. H. Wiley, of New Jersey, and Dr. Arthur I. Day, of the Carnegie Institute.

SUGAR TRUST TO BE CITED

Presentment for Contempt Made by Grand Jury Foreman.

Grows Out of Failure to Produce Documents in February and Order to "Show Cause."

New York, March 3.—A presentment for contempt of court against the American Sugar Refining Company, signed by Evert S. Fink, foreman of the Federal grand jury, was handed to Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court this afternoon. This action is based on the failure of the trust to produce documents in response to a subpoena duces tecum, served in the latter part of February.

Charles R. Helke, secretary of the sugar company, accepted service of the subpoena and undertook to produce the papers required. When he appeared before the grand jury on February 23, however, he insisted on being put under oath. This District Attorney Wise was disinclined to allow, because of the possible immunity it might confer on Mr. Helke, and also because the subpoena was not directed to the sugar officials personally. In other words, the subpoena did not require Mr. Helke to produce anything. It required the trust to produce, and the latter chose to essay this through the agency of its secretary. Any messenger boy could have delivered the papers as well as Mr. Helke, is the government's contention.

An order to show why the trust should not be adjudged in contempt of court will be issued next week. No data for argument has been fixed.

James M. Beck, counsel for the sugar company, said to-day that his clients had no desire to obstruct the investigation which Mr. Wise is conducting under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law. This investigation has no connection with the government's underweighting frauds prosecution. Mr. Beck said that he and Mr. Wise could not agree on what they regard as a novel legal issue, and both thought it best to have the court decide the matter.

Death of Mrs. Lettie Rayfield.

Cape Charles, Va., March 3.—Mrs. Lettie Rayfield, aged seventy-five years, one of the oldest citizens of Northampton County, died at her home in Cheriton, following a long illness. She is survived by a husband and four children.

STATESMEN RAPPED BY MICHIGANDERS

Senatorial Fight Burlesqued at Club Banquet.

WILSON STARTS MERRIMENT

Using Fork as Magic Wand, Transports Club to Grand Rapids, Where Political Meeting Takes Place—Impersonator of Representative Unable to Explain Gas Conditions.

Michigan statesmen were unmercifully arraigned last night at the annual banquet of the Michigan Social Club. A burlesque on "Who Shall Be Senator" hinged on the Senatorial fight now waxing warm in the Wolverine State.

Senator Burrows, Representative Townsend, and several other lawmakers were impersonated by members of the club.

President Burridge Wilson started the fun. Using his fork as a magic wand, he transported the entire club and its guests to Powers' Theater, Grand Rapids, where all would participate in a mass meeting preliminary to the Senatorial primaries. He waved his magic wand again, and the curtain went up, revealing Henry M. Rose in the role of Representative Hamilton, temporary chairman of the political meeting. He was surrounded by a galaxy of misfit representations of Michigan statesmanship.

No Difference to Him.
Hon. Gerrit J. Diekmann, in the person of Daniel A. Edwards, was next introduced as the permanent chairman of the meeting. "Diekmann" made it clear that it was no difference to him whether he was President of the United States or Senator from Michigan, so long as he was elected Speaker of the House.

Then came William Alden Smith, impersonated by Lewis M. Miller, armed with his good, old umbrella. The Senator flapped his wings and declared it was a momentous occasion. He told the glorious story of putting the minions of Cuba to rout, and declared he was modest when he told how he saved the water power of the Soo and knocked the railroad bond clause from the Aldrich currency bill.

The burlesque of Samuel W. Smith, chairman of the House District Committee, declared Charles E. Townsend is the friend of Taft, was the friend of Roosevelt, McKinley, Lincoln, and Washington, and would be the friend of every President who bobbed up on the horizon.

Smith said nice things of Senator Burrows, until a citizen of Washington in the audience shouted, "Why doesn't Washington have universal transfers?" The speaker sidestepped this question, and then another Washington man, who demanded to know why Washington was mistreated by the gas monopoly. He replied that Washington had the finest gas plant in the world, daily producing the greatest quantity of gas, which could be found in any city of the country.

"I don't mean that gas plant on the hill, the House of Representatives," shouted the late Washingtonian. "I was talking about the kind of gas we burn. Give me a straight answer if you can."

"Who are you, anyway?"
"I give it up," was the reply.

Something in Way.
Representative Denby, misinterpreted by Claude Curtis, tried to make it clear why he was not running for the Senate. He said he was too busy running for the room in which the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry is progressing.

Representative Townsend, impersonated by Daniel E. McClure, was introduced as the near-insurgent who got chilled feet. "Some of my friends are troubled about my insurgency," he said, "but one roar of the Cannon, one bellow of Payne, and I was a fearless standpatter again."

Various speakers mentioned the possibility of a dark house in the Senatorial race. A tall hostler dashed out upon the stage and curbed the spirit of a dark horse not more than one hand high.

A seat was reserved on the stage for Senator Burrows, who did not arrive until late in the evening, when he came upon the stage impersonated by John M. Wolcott.

Fears were entertained that he might not find his way back to Michigan again. Burrows started to make a good old-fashioned speech, but "Billy" McKnight, a prominent Michigan Democrat, impersonated by Jason Waterman, started in to paint the Republicans a deep red, but Republicans were in the majority. He was yelled down, and Democracy was once more pulled from aloft and ground in the dust.

Lawmakers at Banquet.
About 125 were present, among whom were Representative Loud, Representative Diekmann, Representative Townsend, Representative Gardner, Chaplain Henry N. Couden, Henry M. Rose, assistant secretary of the Senate; Representative McLaughlin, Representative Young, and Representative Fordney.

Officers of the association are: Burridge Wilson, president; Mrs. T. Hicks, first vice president; Dr. S. C. Johnson, second vice president; H. A. Babcock, secretary, and J. C. Weldon, treasurer. The banquet committee consisted of John C. Weldon, Jason Waterman, H. V. Bisbee, L. M. Miller, and O. A. Calkins. Entertainment—Wells F. Harvey, Dr. Stuart Turner, Reception—Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ayler, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mills, Mrs. Spencer, Miss Lella Blain, W. G. Weldon, Dr. S. O. Graess, Miss L. E. Collar, and Mr. and Mrs. A. McMillan.

HOME LOOTED BY THIEF.

Family Returned and Finds Cash and Jewelry Gone.

The home of Mrs. Annie M. Burkhardt, 212 N. street southeast, was entered last night and $150 in cash, a gold watch and chain valued at $50, two gold rings, and other jewelry was stolen.

The thief gained entrance by using a duplicate key.

The family left at 6 o'clock, and did not return home until 11 o'clock last night.

Seeking Homes for Girls.
Homes for 1,000 young women who will arrive in Washington soon to work as Census employees are being sought by the Woman's Welfare Department of the National Civic Federation. Lists of homes where these young women can be made happy during their stay here are now being compiled by the executive committee of the federation, and will be mailed to the prospective employees in all parts of the country.

COUNCILMEN FAIL TO SOLVE STRIKE

ferences to the courts or adjust their disputes between themselves.

For the Sake of Propriety.

"It is of the utmost importance for the good name of our city and for the safety of its citizens that no step should be taken by your honorable bodies, or by any others, which would undo, or in any way or manner interfere with, that which has been done, or lead any person to think or believe that he can, by the aid of the machinery of the legislative branches of the municipal government, enforce any demand not cognizable in the courts or voluntarily adjustable between the parties."

"Any attempt, however honest it may be, which tends to draw away from the parties themselves, or from the judiciary, the determination of disputes, which, under the constitution and laws of the Commonwealth, are entrusted to them, necessarily weakens and impairs our form of government and tends to substitute other means not calm, considerate, and unbiased, for those which are now lawfully provided and are abundantly sufficient for that, and in the present case would tend to prolong the agitation that will delay the restoration of full service by the transit company."

Thomas W. McFarland, of the Forty-fourth ward, sent up to the clerk a resolution which called upon the council to instruct the city's representatives on the Pennsylvania Rapid Transit board to use their influence for peace or resign. Mr. McFarland's resolution was laid on the table.

Mr. McFarland jumped to his feet.

Councilman Shows Anger.

"I would be a coward and a sneak," said he, "and I would not be doing my duty if I didn't offer this. The conditions in Philadelphia are a disgrace, and the city has received a blacker eye than ever before. Western business men refuse to come here on account of the conditions."

He later offered a sarcastic resolution. "Mr. president," he shouted, "I have a resolution embodying the only solution for the settlement of the strike."

"Whereas Mayor Reburn and Gen. Henry Clay, director of public safety, refuse to allow the present state of disturbance to be settled by any other means than force of arms; be it

"Resolved, That these councils do hereby implore our peerless leader, Contractor James P. McNeel, who is now sojourning in sunny Florida, under the sheltering palms, with certain influential Republican-Democrat members of the councils and the founders of the Workingmen's League party, to return immediately and issue the necessary orders to Reburn and Clay to change their belligerent attitude."

Select Councilman Duff tried something of the kind in his chamber, but they choked Duff off.

No official action was taken on the mayor's suggestion as to the law which provides a means of settlement. The striking carmen realized that without the immediate co-operation of the Rapid Transit Company the law would be worse than useless to them. Without both sides to a dispute going into court, the one side which does must wait ten days for the other party to make answer. Ten days would kill a general strike.

Holds Law is Unconstitutional.
The reply of the transit company to the offer made to-night by the strikers to take advantage of the law was foreseen in the light of a statement by George H. Earle that the law is unconstitutional, as well as ineffective.

Another side to the general situation has become apparent in the last twelve hours. A general strike here is likely to have State-wide, even national, consequences. The Central Labor Union has heard from the centrals of Chicago and San Francisco. John Fitzpatrick, of the Chicago body, telegraphed that 250,000 men there are ready to strike in sympathy, while Andrew J. Gallagher, of the San Francisco organization, sent word that the union men there stand ready to back up the labor unions here in any action they may take. Besides these, John J. Murphy says he has received assurances that there will be sympathetic strikes all over the State of Pennsylvania.

The newspapers will not be embarrassed by the general strike. The committee of five appointed by the Typographical Union had a meeting to-night. The conclusion is that the committee, in whose hands the action of the types was left, decided against participating.

Pratt, leader of the striking carmen, and President Murphy, of the Central Labor Union, were indicted by the grand jury this afternoon for making incendiary statements and inciting to riot.

Church Charter Roll Closed.

The charter membership roll of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany was closed last night with a list of seventy-two, at a meeting held at 1222 Vermont avenue. Change of location of the church was considered and the next meeting will be held Thursday next.

BENCH COMMITTEE REPORTS

Dog Show Will Be Held in Arcade
Building April 13 to 16—Many Special Prizes Promised, Besides Ribbons in Double Set of Classes. Constitution and By-laws Adopted.

The organization of the Washington Kennel Club was completed last night at a meeting in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, which was attended by forty-one persons, who will constitute the charter membership.

Officers were elected, instructions given to proceed with the incorporation of the club, the bench committee reported progress in arrangement for the dog show to be held in the Arcade Building April 13 to 16, inclusive, and the club adjourned to meet on the second Tuesday in May, unless sooner called by the President.

Club Adopts Constitution.
Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the report of the committee on constitution and by-laws was received and its recommendation adopted, making the draft submitted a constitution and by-laws of the club. A further resolution made permanent the temporary officers elected at the last meeting, including Dr. Cecil French, president; H. T. Newcomb, secretary, and C. H. L. Johnston, treasurer. E. A. Conroy was elected vice president, and Dr. W. E. Evans, J. O. Evans, E. S. Schmidt, and W. A. Watson were elected to the board of governors, to which further additions will be made later. Mrs. Angus McSwen, E. Votol, and Dr. F. O. Roman were named the membership committee.

Under the constitution the initiation fee is placed at $1 and the yearly dues at $2, payable in advance. Provision is also made for a regular meeting of the club on the second Tuesday of every month, but in order not to interfere with the work of the bench show committee it was agreed the March and April meetings should be dispensed with. A resolution was also adopted extending the thanks of the club to the management of the New Willard and to the Chamber of Commerce for the use of the rooms which they had placed at the disposal of the club for its meetings.

No formal report was made by the bench show committee, the only direct statement being that they were getting along swimmingly; that nearly $2,000 had been subscribed, and most of it paid in, with which sum they could pull through if necessary, but there was little doubt but that the guarantee fund would be raised to the full $2,500 within the next few days. It was further stated that many special prizes had been promised, but that it was necessary to obtain the donation of a number of cups.

Two Sets of Classes.
There will be a double set of classes, the money class and the ribbon class. The entrance fee for the former will be $2, with prizes of $5 and $3 and a ribbon, and of the latter, $1, with prizes of $4, $2, and a ribbon. The other winners will receive only ribbons. Entries close April 5.

An effort was made by one of the members to obtain a statement as to the attitude of the District of Columbia Kennel Club toward the new organization, but beyond calling attention to the fact that two members of the old club, C. H. L. Johnston and Clarence Moore, were also members of the new club, no reply was vouchsafed.

Dr. French stated, however, that the new club was not going to mix up in the affairs of the old organization. The application for the license for the new club will be forwarded to-day, and Straits will bench the show.

SEEK CAUSE OF SHIPWRECK.

Members of Kentucky's Crew Testify
She Was Seaworthy.

Norfolk, Va., March 3.—The seaworthiness of the steamship Kentucky, which went down off the South Carolina coast on February 5, was a matter of investigation before United States Steamboat Inspectors Bray and Tapley here to-day. The witnesses were William F. Penn, master carpenter, and Mercer J. Dougherty, master caulker, both in the service of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, where the ship was repaired.

The report of the inspectors on the hearing will not be available for several days, but the testimony proved the ship to be in good condition when she left the shipyards, two days before going down.
